Research Visualisation

Affinity Diagram

EXPERIENCES

PERSONAL

BELONGING

PERSONAL DISCOVERY

A social platform is necessary to motivate young people to see art

"I always look towards paintings and literature for inspiration in my art."

"(days off) I'm usually with my glriffriend and rarely by myself, so I probably spend a lot of the time with people."

"I usually draw a lot on my day off, listen to music read, But Chris planned it and I just tagged along. It was free and I got to hang out with mates, so it turned out to be a lot of fun."

"I like exploring different periods of history."

"No to colours, lilked the multi. Danching pink ones. I wanted to use more of them to make things more confusing. Ilke the idea of getting lost in the gallery and not knowing how far I am and how far! I have to go."

"Enter the main hall and go on to the left. I like the idea of semi guided structures, like little walls to show you can get through, but obvious where the intent is."

"I don't know if I learn anything, I just like seeing the stuff."

"I like semi-guided things, becayse a curator can suggest things, but I don't like being stuck to it."

"I hate the idea of walking through something that's not interesting."

e semi-guided things."

"Always kinda like two ways, and then every now and then they kinda join back together."

"I hate the idea of walking through something you're not interested, this way you have lots of different routes to get to the same place."

A highlight of a nostalgic personal experience can turn a bad day into a good one

It's worth going to exhibitions more than once

Free social events with friends can lead to a fun time interests me becaus I've never seen it before."

"My friends came and brought beers, so ultimate high point at the end there."

"I thought it'd be pretty entertaining, good fun playing some Wii with some friends."

I went to the Biennale on Monday and definitely wanna go back (...) there's so much to see."

"They had a Wii though so I just immersed myself in Super Smash Bros until the part properly started."

"But I got to see my girlfriend as well as feed alpacas and lambs which was great, it's my favourite thing to do at the show."

"I knew people who were going, then I decided to go."

"With some mates trying to find a good spot to get a bit intoxicated."

s initially excited I was going there e air [girlfriend]."

"I hate large groups of people, parents screaming at the kids, the people there are annoying."

don't like when you're sorta stuck to that."

"I discover things through friends."